Forecast For West Midlands
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Friday 18 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Heavy rain in eastern areas, with a risk of thunder.

Today:
A dry start for most, with some sunny spells in the west. Turning cloudy through the morning as rain moves in from the southeast. This rain will be heavy and possibly thundery, but is unlikely to affect western areas. Maximum temperature 18 deg C (64 deg F).

Tonight:
The rain and thicker cloud will clear towards the northeast, leaving a dry night with clear spells developing in its wake. Light winds. Minimum temperature 9 deg C (48 deg F).

Saturday:
A dry day with sunny spells and fair-weather cloud. Becoming cloudy in the late afternoon before rain moves in from the south overnight. Maximum temperature 21 deg C (70 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Frequent showers on Sunday, some heavy and with potential for thunder. Showers again on Monday though less frequent. Turning drier on Tuesday. Cloudy and feeling cool throughout.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.